

COHAN IS PLANNING
HIS FIRST VACATION

But He'll Be in "Show Game" in Twenty-Four Hours if Conditions Change.

George M. Cohan is going on a vacation. It will be practically his first —away from his first in twenty-six years. He will start soon. He made this announcement yesterday.
"I don't know how nor where," said he. "Vacationing is a new stunt with me, and I've got to learn how to do it, but after a week from Saturday night I will be out of the theatre." Mr. Cohan was asked if he meant it to be understood that his retirement from all branches of the stage profession is to be permanent.

"It will last just as long as the present conditions in the theatre continue," he replied.
"I believe," he said, after a moment's silence, "that these present difficulties will clear up within a couple of years. They've got to.
And the clearing up will be brought about by the actors themselves."
"Ninety-five per cent. of the actors don't want the 'closed shop' in the theatre. They are accepting it now because they are scared to death at the word 'labor.' But I am as sure as I am sure I'm alive that it can't last. The interests of the actor, the playwright and the manager are identical. One of these days the actors will begin to realize that what I say is true.

"When conditions change so it will be possible for me to survive as a manager. I'll come back into the theatre. I'll be back in twenty-four hours."
Mr. Cohan was asked if he intended to write plays while out of the managerial side of the business.
"Not unless I can cast them," he replied.

There is nothing more fascinating than to watch the Expert Potter transform the "putty like" gray mass of clay into a thin, delicately shaped piece of china.

Years must be spent in patient practice before the artisan becomes proficient. The potter demonstrating this art at a special exhibition, in our China Salon, comes from Staffordshire, England, and has spent sixty years of his life moulding clay.

"Genuine Reductions," Said a man

About this Sale of Clothing

A customer made the above remark to the writer on Wednesday morning, when the sale first opened.
Surely, it MUST be refreshing to find a sale that bears the earmarks of sincerity and presents a logical reason for its existence.

Digby takes care of his own car—and when "Dig" does a job on the motor, his hands and face are covered with grime.

Up in the bathroom are plenty of good absorbent towels.

They are made from Boott Toweling. No matter what "Dig" does to them, they will wear a long time. They are practical because they are made of selected cotton woven with a double ply thread.

They stand the wear, they absorb moisture quickly and never become soppy. They are the kind Digby likes to use. Mrs. Digby buys Boott Toweling by the bolt. Each bolt makes twenty-four full-sized towels at very small cost.

Buy it by the bolt from your dealer. If he cannot supply you, write us.
